

| Criteria                                                                       | Excellent                                                                                                                                    | Good                                                                             | Satisfactory                                               | Limited / Weak                              | Marks |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------|-------|
| 1. Understanding &amp; Contextualization of Social Issue (5)            | Issue is clearly defined, socially contextualized, and demonstrates strong awareness of complexity and relevance.                            | Issue clearly explained but lacks deeper social context.                         | Issue mentioned but explanation is general.                | Issue unclear, vague, or poorly introduced. |       |
| 2. Movie Scene Analysis – Representation, Ideology &amp; Technique (15) | Deep, integrated analysis of representation, audience positioning, cinematic techniques, ideology, and power. Moves beyond description.      | Clear analysis with some critical depth but may miss deeper ideological insight. | Mostly descriptive with limited critical interpretation.   | Summary-based; lacks analysis.              |       |
| 3. Advertisement Analysis – Purpose, Persuasion &amp; Interest (15)     | Critically examines purpose, economic motive, audience targeting, emotional manipulation, omission, and ideology. Strong application of CML. | Clear analysis but limited depth in ideology or power critique.                  | Basic discussion of techniques; limited critical thinking. | Descriptive; lacks critical questioning.    |       |

|                                                                          |                                                                                                                                       |                                                     |                                                         |                                                 |     |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 4. Billboard Analysis – Visual Literacy &amp; Simplification (10) | Strong interpretation of symbolism, color, body language, normalization, and ideological reduction of complex issues.                 | Good visual explanation with some critical insight. | Mostly descriptive; limited ideological interpretation. | Surface-level description only.                 |     |
| 5. Comparative Critical Analysis (10)                             | Sophisticated comparison identifying shared ideology, power structures, persuasion strategies, and differences in depth across media. | Clear comparison but lacks theoretical depth.       | Basic comparison; limited integration.                  | Minimal or weak comparison.                     | /15 |
| 6. Application of Critical Media Literacy Theory (10)             | Seamlessly integrates representation, ideology, power, audience positioning, and omission throughout analysis.                        | Theory present but inconsistently integrated.       | Mentions theory but weak application.                   | No clear theoretical engagement.                |     |
| 7. Depth of Critical Thinking (5)                                 | Demonstrates independent insight, challenges assumptions, questions power structures.                                                 | Shows analytical thinking with some originality.    | Some analysis but largely predictable observations.     | Surface-level thinking; no critical engagement. |     |
| 8. Critical Reflection (5)                                        | Reflection demonstrates awareness of                                                                                                  | Reflection present but                              | Basic reflection; mostly                                | Superficial or missing reflection.              |     |

|                                                            |                                                                                              |                                                 |                                                    |                                                 |  |
|------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------|--|
|                                                            | media construction and intellectual growth; connects learning to theory.                     | lacks deeper insight.                           | personal opinion.                                  |                                                 |  |
| 9. Organization &amp; Coherence (5)                 | Logical structure; smooth transitions; integrated paragraphs; no question–answer format.     | Generally organized; minor coherence issues.    | Some structural problems; ideas loosely connected. | Disorganized ; unclear flow.                    |  |
| 10. Academic Writing Style &amp; Tone (5)           | Formal academic tone; analytical language; avoids summary and informal expressions.          | Mostly formal; minor informal phrasing.         | Inconsistent tone; occasional informal language.   | Informal, conversational, or unclear writing.   |  |
| 11. Grammar, Mechanics &amp; Sentence Structure (5) | Virtually no grammatical, punctuation, or spelling errors. Clear, well-structured sentences. | Minor errors that do not affect clarity.        | Frequent minor errors; some affect clarity.        | Major grammatical issues affecting readability. |  |
| 12. Referencing &amp; Academic Integrity (5)        | Proper citation format used consistently; references accurate; no plagiarism.                | Minor formatting inconsistencies.               | Incomplete or inconsistent referencing.            | Missing references or evidence of plagiarism.   |  |
| 13. Appendix &amp; Supporting Material (5)          | Clear, labeled screenshots; properly attached;                                               | Screenshots attached but minor labeling issues. | Screenshots unclear or poorly labeled.             | Missing appendix material.                      |  |

|  |                        |  |  |  |  |
|--|------------------------|--|--|--|--|
|  | referenced intext. |  |  |  |  |
|  |                        |  |  |  |  |