Q.1 List all the community service tasks you completed in these weeks. (10 Marks)

This week, we partnered with Khutba Foundation and participated in a Tree Plantation, implementing SDG 13, Climate Action, into our work. Due to our university being closed, we were not able to be present at the same location, instead we carried this plantation out within our own local communities.

We coordinated online as a group to plan the activity and selected suitable locations near our homes to ensure that the plants will be provided with their basic needs and could grow properly. The process included preparing the soil, planting the sapling, and watering it. One of the challenges we faced was managing coordinating remotely and ensuring proper resources, but we overcame it through communication.

To conclude, our activity had a positive impact on our individual communities as planting trees leads to reduction of CO_2 from the environment. On a personal level, it made us realize that even small actions can contribute to a larger cause.

Q.2 "Reflect on a critical incident you experienced recently—positive, negative, unusual, or thought-provoking—and share its significance." (10 Marks)

An incident that I faced while carrying out this project was negative in nature, and it was that local members of my community did not show much interest as I had hoped, and some even asked me why it mattered at all.

This incident's significance on me was that it made me realize the true mentality of most people, as well as made me aware of the larger awareness gap present in my own community. Overall, change will be difficult when people are not aware or motivated to bring change.
